- Case Flow Management
- Monitoring of Lower Courts
- Inspection of Lower Courts
- Public Inquiry System and Website of Model Districts
- Complaints Monitoring System
- Preparation of Detailed Network Plan Documents, Establishment, Testing and
- Operationalization of IT Infrastructure

New business / court rules are required for electronic or online case filing. Many documents² are available on web media.

6.1.3 Preparation of Revised Business Process Re-engineering (BPR)

In Bearingpoint report, there is limited BPR available but still revision is required as per international standard. There are many implemented standards available for review and suitable functions related to case flow system and e-filing may be adopted after the careful review.

6.1.4 Framing of new /modified court rules for automated case flow system

Service provider will conduct a comparative study for the implemented court rules of few successful automated judiciaries of other countries. Then localize these common court rules and get sign off from concerned authorities. These new or modified court rules aim to regulate the smooth operations of case flow system and electronic filing.

6.1.5 Review of user requirement and Functional Specification in perspective of national and international experience

Bearingpoint report has some working on user requirement and specifications. Service provider has to review the document and modify these as per International experience. There are many standardized documents available for reference.

6.1.6 Drafting and vetting of IT related agreements and contracts

Outsourcing varies from simple procurement to public private partnership (BOO³, BOOT⁴, ASP⁵, EFSP⁶ etc). Service provider will select the optimum approach of outsourcing. For the
